"Janesville's teams were just warming up the first three days," declared President F. S. Baines of the association this morning. "They are now in working trim and will speed up today
and tomorrow for a whirlwind finish.
The rivalry is keen between the various teams and the enthusiasm bids fair to carry Janesville to second if not to third place in the race. Be-lois' gains were made early and I doubt if they can keep up with the percentage established early in the race."

It was the campaign among the Janesville churches on Thursday
which got the astounding results,
boosting this city from last to third place in the most creditable showing of the campaign. The committee and campaign managers intimated that they had not yet exhausted their means of securing members and had several important schemes which would boost the totals today and tomorrow to an unexpected figure.

Janesville's teams in the inter-city
Y. M. C. A. membership race put on much speed on Thursday and when the reports were received last evening at the association building Janesville had jumped from last place to third position in the ranking, and was crowding Eau Claire, the second city
close, being but 12 members behind.
Beloit still holds by a substantial margin of 177 over Eau Claire and 189 over Janesville.

Janesville's gain of 186 members on Thursday is the largest enrollment secured in one day of this or similar contests in Wisconsin, according to Secretary Dearmore today, who declared that the local teams were making great speed and would easily pass the 500 mark which was the goal
set at the outset of the campaign.

Among the teams the Mitchell team
is leading at a mile a minute clip, with J. E. Lane in charge and aided by H. C. Buell and J. A. Strimpe. This team has enrolled nearly 100 new members, which places them at the 200 mile pole, under the system of points. The Cadillac and Overland teams, headed by H. S. Lovejoy and J. F. Cunningham, each of these teams now has secured 63 members.

The standing of the teams at noon
today was:

JANESVILLE TO PLAY
STOUGHTON ELEVENHigh School Eleven Play First Home Game Tomorrow Afternoon—
Sophomore Class Elect
Their Captain.

After a full week of hard practice
the Janesville high school will play
their second scheduled football game with the Stoughton high school at the fairgrounds tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The highs have improved fifty per cent since the Edgerton game, and they expect to give the Stoughton eleven a good game and possibly win from them. A large attendance is expected, as this is the first home game.

The lineup that will probably be played is as follows: Lee, Cronin and Richards will play in the back field,
and Kober at the quarterback position; Slawson, center; Marshall, left guard; McLaugh, right guard; Felter, right tackle; McCullough, left tackle;
Vince, left end; and Captain Mooney at right end. Pond, Kenning, Taylor and Kakusek will play as subs. Emil J.
Hauemerson will referee the game.

Sophomores Organize.

The boys of the sophomore class
met last night and elected Allan Taylor as captain for their class team.
Great interest is being taken in the class games this year and as things stand now it looks as though the contests will be very exciting.

MASKED MEN HOLD UP
FAST MAIL AND GET
HALF MILLION HAULUNCOUPLE ENGINE AND MAIL
CAR FROM TRAIN IN ROBBERY
IN WEST VIRGINIA.

PUT HOUNDS ON TRAIL

Sheriff's Posse With Dogs Sought Four Men in Foothills Near Scene of Holdup of B. & O. Express.

Clarksville, W. Va., Oct. 8.—Telephone messages received here soon
after noon said that a sheriff posse
with bloodhounds had sighted four men in the foothills near Central Station, and were chasing them. They are believed to be members of the gang who robbed the Baltimore & Ohio train No. 1, the premier train of the road, near Central Station, early today.

The county officials were informed that the robbers secured from the mail car about 100 registered packages and 90 packages of unsigned bank notes sent from Washington to banks in the middle west. The value of currency is estimated at $500,000.

Engine Crew Threatened.

Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 8.—Two masked men early today held up and robbed a Baltimore & Ohio express train from New York to St. Louis,
two miles west of Central Station,
West Virginia. Their booty was taken from mail cars, according to reports received here, and was believed to be large.

The train was due at Parkersburg
at 1 a. m. and it was nearly an hour
late when Grant Helms, the engineer,
was alerted by a noise from the engine. Looking over his shoulder he saw two masked men climbing
over the coal, each carrying an automatic shotgun. They called to him not to move and a minute later he and the firemen were facing the guns.

One of the men ordered Helms to cut off the engine and through mail
cars from the remainder of the train,
and then stood by Helms, directing the distance he should run in. When two miles to the west had been covered, the highwaymen ordered Helms to stop and climb down, while the firemen were compelled to do likewise. The other masked man then took the throttle and as though acquainted with the operation of the engine ran the train at full speed farther west. Here the robbers went through the mail car, paying particular attention to registered mail, which
they looted completely, and then described the train going in the direction of the Ohio river. A short time
later the engine and mail car were
found by a truck walker where they had been left.

Train Crew In Dark.

Meantime the crew left with the remainder of the train but were trying to find the engine. They knew nothing of what had happened, except that the engine and mail car had disappeared. They were then directed by the highwaymen to have the engine run the train at full speed
farther west. Here the robbers went
through the mail car, paying particular attention to registered mail, which
they looted completely, and then described the train going in the direction of the Ohio river. A short time
later the engine and mail car were
had been left.

More than two hours elapsed from time of robbery, about two o'clock
until the news could be sent to division headquarters in the city. The nearest town with telegraphic communication at that hour. But immediately railroad and county officers were sent in all directions and trying detectives were sent to the scene of the robbery, and posses aggregating more than 100 men were scouring the country before daybreak
in Harrison, Doddridge and Peasants counties.

Gives a Description.

Engineer Helms said he could not give a good description of the men, except that they were dressed in dark clothing and seemed to be experienced in the handling of a locomotive. Railroad authorities believe the men when they left the train were wearing the bill of the engine and mail car, which automobile and hastened in the direction of St. Mary's, on the Ohio, between Wheeling and Parkersburg.

The train left New York yesterday morning at ten o'clock and was carried a number of through passengers and important mail and express.
The amount of booty secured is unknown. Helms said he was dressed in a suit and tie, and the mail car
was very valuable, and another report said in the express car, which the robbers did not take with them, going to St. Louis, was in the direction of Central Station in the Doddridge county, midway between Parkersburg and Clarksville, West Virginia. It is a stop for through trains on the B. &
O. only for taking on water.

AMERICAN AVIATORS
SERVING IN FRANCESeven Yankee Volunteers Take Part in Aerial Battle With French Troops in Battle of Champagne.

Paris, Oct. 8.—Seven American volunteer aviators, took part in an aerial reconnaissance in the battle of Champagne, according to reports received here. Sergeant Elliott C. Cowdin,
New York; Sergeant Norman Prince,
Boston; D. J. Minson, San Francisco;
Bert Hall, Bowling Green; James J.
Bach, New York; and H. G. Gerin.

Five more American aviators are scouting and are in other parts of the French line, and eleven men are in training at an aviation school. These twenty-three men formed the Franco-American flying corps, who has just opened an office and club rooms in Paris.

Three of the Americans—Lieut.
Thaw and Sergeants Prince and Cow-din—have been sighted in the orders of the day. Sergeant Cowdin was mentioned for having engaged two German aeroplanes. His French observers disabled one machine by his fire, and the other fled. The American corps has been objects to the experience in war so as to fit them
for service as pilots for officers in the American aerial service, should the occasion arise. The French military academy is giving the American volunteers every opportunity to gain
this experience.

MACKENSEN
IS PUSHING INTO SERBIARAILROADS TO SALONIKI AND CONSTANTINOPLE ARE OB-JECTIVES OF INVADING TEUTONS.

BULGARIAN MANIFESTO

Declaration of Nation's Policy in Joining Central Powers Announced.
—Break With Serbia
Complete.

London, Oct. 8.—The new Teutonic
invasion of Serbia is now in full swing. In command of Field Marshal Von Mackensen, the German and Austrian forces are seeking to push their way southward, with the Drina, Danube and Save rivers at their backs, in an attempt to seize the railways
stretching from Belgrade to both Saloniki and Constantinople.

The next move lies with Bulgaria.
Whether she will attack Serbia from the rear, while the Central powers are hammering at northern and northwestern gate, or maintain for the moment a watchful attitude, is a matter of surmise, but the situation is such that her entry into the war seems to be a matter only of hours.

Russian warships are already reported to be hurling shells at the Bulgarian port of Varna on the Black sea.
French and British troops are being rushed northward from Saloniki by express trains. Meanwhile at the point where the railway approaches closest to Bulgarian territory, both an allied and a Bulgarian army are massing.

It is reported from Italian sources
that as a precaution the Serbian government is transferring all records and archives from Nish to Istip, in southern Serbia, about fifty miles from the Greek frontier.

Virtually made over in guns and equipment, and stiffened by British and French effectiveness, it is predicted that the Serbians will offer stubborn resistance to the Austro-German advance.

Floods Hinder Invasion.

They will be assisted by the flood conditions in the Morava valley, down
which Field Marshal Von Mackensen hopes to force his way. The official German communication now carries the sub-caption "Balkan theatre of war, indicating that these operations
are being chronicled daily."

Estimates of strength of the Austro-German forces along the Serbian front range from 400,000 to 500,000 men. There may have been a withdrawal from the eastern front, from some parts of the eastern front, but the renewed effort of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, to capture Dvinsk, does not indicate any weakening of the troops under his command.

Bulgaria Issues Manifesto.

Berlin, wireless to Sayville, Oct. 8.
—The Frankfurter Zeitung asserts that the Bulgarian government has issued a manifesto to the nation announcing its decision to enter the war
on the side of the central powers.
This manifesto as quoted from the Frankfurter Zeitung, says the Overseas News agency, stated that Bulgaria would commit suicide if she did not ally herself with Germany and her allies.

Promises to Bulgaria.

The manifesto as given out by the Agency says:
"The central powers have promised to parts of Serbia, creating an Austro-Bulgarian border line, which is absolutely necessary for Bulgaria's independence of Serbia."

"We do not believe in the promises
of the central powers."
"Italy, one of the allies, treacherously broke her treaty of thirty-three years. We believe in Germany, who is fighting the whole world to fulfill her treaty with Austria."

"Bulgaria must ally with the victor's side. The Germans and Austro-Hungarians are victorious on all fronts.
Russia soon will have collapsed. England will be unable to maintain the turn of France, Italy and Serbia. Bulgaria would commit suicide if she did not fight on the side of the central powers, which offers the only possibility of realizing her desire for union of all Bulgarian peoples."

The news agency says further:
Analysis of the War.
"The manifesto to the people, which is not only an historical document, but also a valuable aid in regard to Bulgarian politics and economic conditions, states that Russia is fighting for Constantinople and the Dardanelles. Great Britain is fighting for Germany's competition, France for Alsace and Lorraine, and the other allies to rob foreign countries. The central powers are fighting to defend property and secure peaceful progress."

The local neutrality mentioned
by Bulgaria has been advantageous
up to the present time, the manifesto says, and it is only now that military and economic preparations have been completed.

"The manifesto says that Serbia,
the worst enemy of Bulgaria, has oppressed the purely Bulgarian population of Macedonia in the most barbarous manner, the male population
being compelled to die for Serbia's cause, the women being outraged, and the rivers running red with blood."

Committed to Central Powers.

Berlin, wireless to Sayville, Oct. 8.
—A declaration of Bulgaria's intention to enter the war with Germany and her allies is contained in what is described as a Bulgarian manifesto, was given out here today by the Overseas
News agency.

Rupture With Serbia.

Nish, Serbia, via London, Oct. 8.—
The diplomatic rupture between Serbia and Bulgaria is complete. The foreign office has handed his passports
to the Bulgarian minister.

Railroad Taken Over.

Sofia, via Amsterdam and London,
Oct. 8.—The railroad running between Mustapha Pasha, a town of Thrace,
northwest of Adrianople, and the Bulgarian seaport of Dedegatch, in the Aegean sea, was taken over today by the Bulgarian staff. Some forty miles of this railroad runs through Turkish territory.

Greece a Friendly Neutral.

London, Oct. 8.—A message to the Times states that the Greek government has decided to issue a declaration of its attitude of "benevolent neutrality" toward the belligerent powers.

No Truth.

Athens, Greece, Oct. 8.—The official agency announced today
that there was no foundation for the rumors circulated in some quarters
that the new Greek cabinet intended to protest against the landing of allied troops on Greek soil.

PRINCETON STUDENT
ACCUSED AS A SPYMissing Young Man is Located at London Where He is Imprisoned On Charges of Being a Spy.

New York, Oct. 8.—Kenneth G.
Triest, nineteen, who disappeared
from Princeton university last January while a student there, is a prisoner in London accused as a spy. According to information his relatives
here have received from the state department in Washington, Triest is the son of Wolfgang C. Triest, a member of a big consulting firm. The father is a German by birth, but a naturalized citizen of the United States. He has been informed that his son is accused of having enlisted in the British navy in order to obtain information for Germany.

Mr. Triest said today that he has presented to Secretary Lansing the testimony of many of his son's acquaintances to show that the boy was mentally unbalanced, and that he had asked Mr. Lansing to obtain the boy's discharge from custody, and deportation to the United States. Mr. Triest said Mr. Lansing had obtained a postponement of the boy's trial to enable him to submit evidence to the British court. Whether the trial has yet been held, Mr. Triest does not know.

DISCUSS TEMPORAL
STATUS OF PONTIFFReason for Presentation of Topic Before Diet of Bavaria is Unknown.

Amsterdam, via London, Oct. 8.—
The financial committee of the Bavarian diet, it is asserted in a telegram received here, has discussed the problem connected with the Pope of the Roman Catholic church. It was pointed out during the discussion, the telegram states, that it was necessary to consider the independence and the complete sovereignty of the state, without establishing a papal state, but no solution was offered. About sixty per cent of the population of Bavaria is Roman Catholic. There is no previous dispatches to indicate what prompted a discussion at this time by the diet committee of the Pope's temporal status.

Water.—Death Accidental.

Boston, Oct. 8.—The body of Mrs.
Bertie B. Crownsfield, wife of the well known yacht designer of Marblehead, was found in a bathtub filled with hot water in the Parker House

the city late yesterday afternoon.
Mrs. Crownsfield, registered at "Mrs. Bowdoin." The discovery of the body was made when employees went to a medical examination. The cidentally.

MURDER PLOT ENDS
IN DEATH OF GIRLSlayers Believed to Have Followed Young Woman From Buffalo to Minneapolis, Where They Killed Her.

Minneapolis, Oct. 8.—Details of a murder plot which the police believe ended today in the death of Kate Arnold, 28, were sought after the woman's body had been found in her room in a small hotel here. Two men are being held for having followed her from Buffalo for the purpose of killing her. For three days the suspects loitered in the entrance of the hotel and in the alley in the rear of the place. The supposed slayer of the woman went boldly to the hotel about 1 a. m. today and asked for Kate Arnold. He was shown upstairs and she met him in the hall. Nothing more was known until her body was found this morning.

AUTO BANDITS HOLD
UP A RACINE HOTELTwo Masked Men Relieve Guests of Money and Jewelry and Escape
In Wild Chase.

Racine, Wis., Oct. 8.—Two masked automobile bandits last night held up Lakeside Hotel, just outside the city,
and after relieving ten people of valuables and jewelry, escaped after a wild chase toward the city.

One of the men held the door with a revolver in each hand, lining up the guests, while the other rifled their pockets and the cash register.

Joe Bero, one of the victims, thought
he had a joke and began to laugh.
He was promptly knocked senseless.
The men drove hastily away, followed by the aroused neighborhood. The machine was soon lost in the darkness.

Possibly the greatest loss was sustained by A. R. Fab Roy, a representative of a Chicago insurance newspaper, who was relieved of negotiable papers, valuables and cash to amount of $100.

Alexander Wins First for Phillies

Grover Cleveland Alexander.

The burning question of the day is: "Can Boston beat Alexander?"
If they can the Carriagons ought to have little difficulty in winning the big purple and gold banner emblematic of world's supremacy. No member of as that slay by Alexander this season.

CARRANZA'S REGIME
MAY BE RECOGNIZED
BY UNITED STATESEarly Recognition of Mexican General
Is Predicted on Eve of Pan-American Congress.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Indications today on the eve of the conference of the Pan-American diplomats are that the Carranza government in Mexico will receive early recognition from the United States.

The only thing that can stand in the way of recognition, it is believed,
would be some development to complicate the situation.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 8.—Frank Mc-
Lean, superintendent of the Detroit Mines at Duncan, Ariz., arrived here
and asserted that women refugees at Duncan had been forced to work in the mines for months and two days' employment during a week.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 8.—General

day to confer with George C. Carruthers, special representative of the state department.

CROWNHART IS NOT
CANDIDATE FOR JOBWill Resume Practice of Law—Governor Will Have Two Jobs to Fill at Madison.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 8.—Reports that
C. H. Crownhart, former chairman of the Industrial commission, was to be appointed to the vacancy on the Tax commission has been effectually quieted by the knowledge that he has made preparations to practice law in Wisconsin. This means that the governor has two good jobs to fill, the $5,000
place on the tax commission, and a new position on the newly created board to look into swamp land claims against the federal government. It is understood that there are several applicants for the tax commission job
while the swamp land job is going begging, although it will pay a good salary and involve trips to Washington, D. C., at state expense. In his law practice Mr. Crownhart will be associated with F. M. Wyle, formerly chief clerk of the senate. They will specialize in practice before the state
commissions and departments, public utility rates and service, tax adjustments, insurance rates, chairmen of commissions, legislation, workmen's compensation and other business. Mr. Crown-hart for years practiced in Superior
as a partner of W. R. Foley. In 1910
he was successful manager in Wisconsin. La Follette's campaign for re-election. For several years he was a normal school reagent. He was chairman of the Industrial commission from 1911 until last August. Mr.
Wyle, through his experience with the legislature, is thoroughly familiar with the workings of the state government and is a recognized expert on parliamentary law and legislative proceedings.

CENTRAL LIFE OPENS
OFFICES IN THE CITYA. C. Lawson, state manager of the Central Life Insurance company, has been in Janesville this week, making plans for the opening of a district office of the company, with Harry Wemple in charge. They are located in the Jackson block and the territory included in the Janesville district is the most extensive. Mr. Lawson is a former resident of Janesville and in Angust was elected secretary of the National Association of Life Underwriters at their national meeting in San Francisco.FATE CAUSED SAD
PLIGHT OF FAMILY
STRANDED IN CITYHarry Paulson of Alberta Meets With Trouble.—Was Enroute for England.

Stranded! That one word tells the plight of Harry Paulson, a young man from Edmonton, Alberta, who with his wife and four months old baby are victims of circumstances here in Janesville.

Two weeks ago Paulson left Edmonton with his wife and babe for Nottingham, England. Before the European war broke out Paulson was employed at Edmonton, earned livable
wages and met the world with an open face rejoicing in the fact that he owed no man a cent. Then came the crash. Canada being a colony of England was merged into the war and as soon as the war clouds hovered over the dominion work was slack. Paulson for months had but two days' employment during a week.

His savings, piling up through thrift,
gradually shrunk down and then
dwindled away for the wife and babe
in desperation Paulson obtained money from relatives in England. Knowing that he could obtain work in the "old country" he purchased a passage to Liverpool and was held up at the immigrant factory. Labor is in demand there.

Paulson is ready to make the long journey and in his vision he pictures
himself in a little home over in England just at a time when the burdens
of his family would be increased.

The Paulsons, who are now in Janesville, were coming through Janesville last week on one of the big Northwestern
passenger trains bound for Chicago.
The wife was taken ill. The train was held up for an hour during the operation, but the little babe died
never seeing the light of the world.
His wife was removed to the Mercy hospital, as she was in a dangerous condition. Physicians' bills and hospital dues piled up and the money supply of funds that were saved to make the journey to England were gone. Baggage that had been checked for England was held up at the railroad officials refused to release it here at Janesville.

Postmaster Asa Anderson, with his big heart, became interested in the case through his office and by taking the matter up with the federal officials secured the release of the baggage to the family. The tickets purchased for the trip abroad are void, and here is Paul-
son with a sick wife, an infant child,
practically no money and no work.
He is to leave the hospital Saturday or Sunday, and it is up to him
the proposed trip to the mother country would be possible owing to her
physical condition.

Paulson relating his story this morning did not ask for help and ask for aid. His hands and countenance showed that he was not afraid of work nor expected a living off the Cubs. The tickets were purchased for the trip abroad are void, and here is Paul-
son with a sick wife, an infant child,
practically no money and no work.
He is to leave the hospital Saturday or Sunday, and it is up to him
the proposed trip to the mother country would be possible owing to her
physical condition.

WILSON ON HOLIDAY
WITH BRIDE ELECTPresident Accompanied by Mrs. Galt Left Today for New York for Short Visit.

Washington, Oct. 8.—President Wilson's departure for New York today accompanied by Mrs. Norman Galt, today he will be married presumably late next month, and several members of his immediate family, marks the beginning of the first holiday from the care of his office since his return from the summer White House at Cornish,
N. H., about a month ago.

QUAKER IN LEAD TODAY;
BOSTON LOSTALEXANDER PROVED TOO MUCH FOR BEAN EATERS IN OPEN-ING GAME THIS AF-TERNOON.

WORLD'S SERIES START

Final Score Was Three to One in Favor of the National League Team
on Their Home Grounds.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 8.—The Philadelphia Nationals won the first game
in the world's series from the Boston
American League team by a final score of three to one.

The "Mighty" Alexander proved too much for the Sox batters.

On Grounds Early.

The players of both teams arrived on the ground shortly after noon and tried out the range on the short right field fence. These grounds are the smallest in the major leagues. May-sent up the batters for Boston's battle practice, while Al. Demaree took the pitching mound when the Philadelphians took their turn at slugging, the different ranges of the field. The players were given an ovation by the already large crowd. The ground in front of their benches was almost as deep in mud.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, idol of the Philadelphia fans, and the hope of the team in the series, got a special greeting when he was recognized carefully muffled up in a blue sweater.
"Alex" made his way directly to the
pitcher's box and inspected it minutely.

Apparently satisfied he proceeded to the home bench. The Phillies wore their regular white uniforms. Most of them gave evidence of a recent visit to the laundry.

All Pitchers Work.

The entire pitching staff of the Philadelphia, with the exception of Alexander, soon started to loosen up their arms. At one time eight pitchers as with many receivers, were at work.

Shortly before one o'clock gasoline was spread along the base paths and set on fire in further efforts to dry out the ground. The flames leaped fifty feet in the air and a huge cloud of black smoke rolled skyward. The heat could be felt in the stands.

While the "burning out" was in progress, Alexander engaged in batting practice down the right field foul line.

Stands Filled.

The stands at 1:45 were practically filled. Down the third base line the viewers looked up at an industrious bees busy kept things lively. The photographers were busy as bird dogs running around the field, snapping players and the umpires who themselves up at the home plate.

Though the infield was sodden with
the heavy rain, the fielding practice
of both teams was surprisingly fast.
The Boston outfielders gave special

POSTMASTER NAMED DEFENDANT IN SUIT

COMPLAINT FILED TODAY ALLEGES CUNNINGHAM THREATENED WOMAN TO GET MONEY.

FACES DURESS CHARGE

Mrs. Abraham is Complainant, Alleging Extortionate Transaction Took Place in Federal Building.

J. J. Cunningham, Janesville postmaster, and John E. Nolan, a local grocer, are defendants in a complaint filed this morning in the clerk of the circuit court's office, in which the complainant, Mrs. Eulalia F. Abraham of this city, alleges that she was compelled to pay over to the defendants, as the result of threats, the sum of $300 to secure, as she was led to believe, her husband's immunity from state's prison.

It is further alleged in the complaint that the alleged extortionate proceedings against Mrs. Abraham took place in the office of Postmaster Cunningham in the federal building and that a mail clerk during a riot belonging to one of the mail carriers took Mrs. Abraham to her home, where she secured the funds which she turned over to the defendants.

Mrs. Abraham's suit is a civil action to recover damages to the amount of $300, which is the sum she claims to have paid to Cunningham and Nolan. Mrs. Abraham's husband, Guernsey, claims the complaint alleges, had been falsely imprisoned previous to the alleged threatening of the plaintiff, had been forcibly detained at the city hall lock-up without warrant for his arrest, while it was represented to the wife, it is alleged, that he would be sent to prison for embezzlement unless a satisfactory settlement was made by her.

In further allegations the complaint says "that this plaintiff asked to have her husband present at the transaction then in hand but that said defendant told her that her husband could not come; that said plaintiff also asked if the transaction of the business could not wait until the following day, and that in reply said defendant stated that said plaintiff must pay the money over that day or her husband would be sent to state's prison on the day following, and also told her that the only thing left to be done in the matter was to have sentence passed on her husband and to then send him to said prison."

The date of the alleged negotiations, the complaint states, was in the latter part of this year. They followed trouble between Nolan and Abraham at the Nolan store where Abraham had been employed for some time, and where he had a small investment. Nolan claimed a shortage in accounts was attributable to Abraham and sought to secure a settlement, ultimately taking up the matter with his attorney, J. J. Cunningham.

The trial of the action will probably take place before a jury at the common law term of the circuit court for Rock county, and will be a matter of unusual interest, owing to the prominence of the parties concerned. Jeffries, Mount, Oestreich & Avery are the attorneys for Mrs. Abraham.

John Nolan through his attorney, has filed an answer to the complaint, in which he denies the allegations of the plaintiff and states the settlement was not made under duress. George G. Sutherland is representing him in the matter. Mr. Cunningham has not yet filed any answer.

WILL ASK COUNCIL TO SUPPRESS FILM

Delegation of Janesville Colored Men Will Voice Objections to "Birth of a Nation."

A delegation of Janesville colored men will be given an audience at the meeting of the city commissioners on Friday, Oct. 16, at which they will voice their objections to the photoplay "The Birth of a Nation," scheduled to be shown at the latter part of this month at the Myers Theatre. Arrangements for the meeting were made on Thursday by E. W. Scott, colored, who gave his address as 114 North Exchange and who held a conference with Mayor Fathers.

It is the contention of the negroes that the film arouses prejudice against their race and serves only to stir up race hatred and animosity. The production is founded upon the widely known civil war novel, "The Clansman," and deals with the reconstruction period. Mayor Fathers informed Scott that the council is willing to give the delegation a hearing on the date mentioned.

OFFICERS AT JEFFERSON INSPECT ROBBERY SUSPECT

Chief of Police P. D. Champion, of this city, and Cal Broughton, of Gilman of Evansville, left this noon for Chicago, where they will view the alleged highwayman who is being held in the Jefferson jail, pending an investigation as to his guilt in the sensational hold-up of the St. Paul passenger train at Jefferson, Mo. The suspect held at Jefferson was captured in a gun-fight this week. The officers will return in the afternoon.

Mrs. Gertrude Fineran of Chicago is spending the week with friends in this city.

Mrs. E. H. Fineran has returned to her home in this city, after visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Wegman, of St. Charles, Minnesota.

COFFEE A NARCOTIC AND DOPE WITH OPIUM

Well Known Medical Writer Declares Coffee, Like Opium, Holds Victims in Pitiless Grasp.

"I would like to make everyone thoroughly understand that coffee is a narcotic—a very strong narcotic, too," says Dr. C. S. Carr in a communication to the Ohio State Journal. "There is no drug in the pharmacopoeia that has a more powerful effect upon the brain centres than coffee. Coffee is a dope and narcotic and does not produce at once the mental disaster that opium does. Slowly but surely coffee gets control of its victim and holds him in its grasp, a pitiful, helpless victim."

NOTE.—The food-drink, instant Postum, while much resembling the higher grades of Java coffee in flavor and appearance, is absolutely free from coffee drugs, caffeine and tannin, or any other harmful ingredient. Pure, wholesome, harmless, convenient, economical, this delicious hot beverage is a happy taking the place of coffee in homes where health is a prime desideratum.

MAJESTIC PROGRAM FULL OF CONTRAST

English Actors Carry Off Honors on Last Night's Program.

Two actors whose names are well known in America but much better known in England, carried the majestic and tuneful fun of the scene from the flying merry-go-round actually made one dizzy. But the feature of the program, of course, was the Robertson's "Hamlet." Never, probably, has there been a more brilliant motion picture screen. The production throughout was of a high order, and gave a person an idea of the great success of the drama as interpreted by the artists comprising the Drury Lane company.

MERCHANTS COMBINE FOR GIGANTIC SALE

MANUFACTURERS AND MERCHANTS TO HOLD EXHIBITION FOR ONE WEEK.

STARTS OCTOBER 30TH

Special Offerings Made to Patrons During Gigantic Sale—Exhibition Will Be Held at Auditorium.

Final arrangements were completed last evening by which the Janesville merchants, combined with the manufacturers, will hold an eight-day exhibition and refund sale, October 30th, to Saturday, November 6th, inclusive. The wonderful success of this combination of Janesville industries and business, which was represented in the event held three years ago, is still fresh in the minds of the people, and there is no exaggeration in the statement that it was the most instructive and best arranged exhibition of the city's manufacturing and retail sources of anything that has occurred in the city's history.

Thousands of people visited Janesville during that week, coming from a long distance. They found it convenient to make the trip during that week because the manufacturers' interests of the city were represented at one central point and many who were interested in the products of Janesville factories, took occasion to place their orders during that week.

The refund of railroad fare and special offerings of the retail business interests, attracted many people, and the wonderful success of the refunding sale, were repeated with full and merchandise were sufficient to make the trip a matter of economy.

The committee from the retail division of the Commercial club, as well as the committee of promotion of the association, are arranging for the manufacturers' event to occur at the Auditorium, State street. The building is to be decorated in a fitting manner and everything prepared to attract the sight-seers. Janesville has many industries that any city may be proud of. Its retail interests are of a character and size that compare well with cities many times the size of Janesville, and those who are interested in the products of their own community, will be given an opportunity to see first hand, the manufactured items of Janesville.

It is also to be noted that the exhibit will be a most valuable moment, the wonderful stocks of merchandise. Secretary W. J. McDowell of the Commercial club is actively in charge of all matters pertaining to the exhibit and sale and is having a floor diagram made for exhibitors. A number of the leading manufacturers have already signified their intention of placing exhibits and full information for all will be ready shortly.

Artist Engaged to Sing With Dettin in Chicago Grand Opera Appears Before Apollo Club.

To people who have been wondering whether the artists that will appear before the Apollo club the coming season are real artists or simply platform or lecture bureau artists, the following telegraphic information which is just received in this city will be interesting:

Frances Ingram has been engaged to open the Chicago opera season with Dettin, in "Gloconda." She will sing the leading contralto role, sung at the Metropolitan by Homer and Matzenbauer.

A number of artists have already been engaged whose work is fully on a par with that of Miss Ingram. If the members of the Apollo club do not say at the close of the season this is the best course the Apollo club has ever given them, then the management will be very greatly surprised and disappointed.

Miss Ingram appears tonight in the opening number of the Apollo club, in the following program:

PETEY DINK—THE GENERAL IS A CRAPE HANGER, ALL RIGHT.

EAST OFFERS BEST SCHEDULE OF GAMES FOR THIS SATURDAY

Yale Will Have Tough Time With Lehigh—Harvard Meets Carlisle, Wisconsin vs. Marquette.

(By George R. Holmes.)

New York, Oct. 8.—Eastern football teams enter tomorrow on the third stage of the season's grind. In the west, the big fellows, after weeks of practicing, are making their second showings in intercollegiate combats.

Interest in the east is largely centered on the Princeton-Syracuse struggle at Princeton. The Tigers' start against Georgetown two weeks ago was anything but auspicious, as they defeated the southerners only 12 to 0, in a game that showed many Princeton weaknesses. Since that time, however, Coach Sweeney has driven his men to the limit, and indications today were that the Tigers will go into tomorrow's game more like the Princeton of former years.

Harvard is expected to have a walk-away with Carlisle. The Indians are weaker this season than they have been in years, as was shown when Lebanon Valley College held them to a scoreless tie.

Yale will have a tougher time with Lehigh, but should win by a good score. The Blues rolled up a total of points against Maine, and then lost to Virginia.

Uncle Sam's twins—the Army and Navy—swing into action against Georgetown and Pittsburgh. The Marines are liable to find a target in the Pittsburghers, and no one would be greatly surprised if Pittsburgh would repeat its last year's victory. Last year the Pitt triumphed the Navy, 13 to 0.

With the possible exception of the Iowa-Minnesota game, the west didn't offer a very attractive program to tomorrow. Chicago meets Northwestern in the only other Big Nine game, and considerable interest is centering in it because Coach Stagg's warriors do not appear as strong as in former years, while the Methodists have the best team in years.

According to the sages of football annals, Northwestern trimmed Maroons, 6 to 5. Since then it has been a tradition that Chicago won every game played throughout the following period; so much so in fact that it has at last become a habit. Followers of the Evanston school feel that if they are to beat Chicago, now is the opportunity.

The Iowa-Minnesota game, however, should be a hummer, because both teams are always strong, and this year is no exception.

RITCHIE WILL NOT MEET JOHNNY DUNDEE TONIGHT

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York, Oct. 8.—The Willie Ritchie-Johnny Dundee scrap scheduled for tonight at the Garden has been indefinitely postponed. The club's license has expired and the outgoing boxing commission declined to issue a new one.

Playing managers are disappearing from major league baseball. In the National league, now there are only three; in the American league, two, and in the Federal league, four. In another year that number may be cut in half. The two playing in the American league are Carrigan of the Red Sox and Donovan of the Yankees. The latter breaks into the game but rarely, and so that leaves Carrigan the only out-acting playing manager in the Johnson circuit. Higgins of the Cardinals, Herzog of the Reds and Bresnahan of the Cubs are the three playing managers in the old league. Oakes of the Pittsburghers, McGraw of the Yankees, McKechnie of Newark and Stovall of Kansas City constitute the playing quartet of the Federal league. Tinker has practically quit the playing end of the game.

ZIMMERMAN'S HOMER AND LAVENDER PUT CITY SERIES EVEN

Scores Three Runs in Seventh.—Lavender Hurls Air-Tight Ball for the "Polar Bear."

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Chicago, Oct. 8.—The Chicago Cubs, led by the Great Zim, demonstrated that they were polar bears yesterday when they slew the Sox by the count of 4 to 0 at the Cubs' lair, while five thousand fans nearly froze. Heilmann obtained full revenge for the spanking he received at the Sox park by putting out a home run in the seventh inning which clinched the game. The two teams now have one game to their credit and today's game, if weather permits, will be played at Comiskey's palace of baseball on the south side.

Jimmy Lavender hurled the shut-out game for the Cubs and in the second inning when the Bruisers cracked one run off Joe Benz, the meagre crowd was willing to bet that the Sox would break down that lead in the late innings. But Lavender refused to break Sox. Their bats refused to unlimber Benz kept pace with Lavender until the seventh and this inning regulated him to the bench.

In the fateful seventh Fischer singled, Schulte delivered with a punch that put Fischer on third and up strode Zimmerman with his grouchy "east-calls" on the south-side and there was a crack of doom. That four-ply blow scoring three runs tumbling the Sox.

Lavender never pitched a better game than yesterday and only two Sox got as far as third and the south-siders were only able to garner four hits. And with this pitching Lavender was afforded perfect support. The two violent innings, the second and seventh, were enough for Joe Benz and Cicotte finished the game. Fisher probably got against the Cubs today and Pierce is the choice of Bresnahan for today's game. Lavender in yesterday's game only pitched 110 balls. Summary:

Cubs.....0 1 0 0 3 0 0 0 4

Extra-base hits—Two base, Archer, Collins; home run, Zimmerman.

Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, six-time winners of American league pennants, and three times world's champions, stung by criticism relative to his deliberate machine, has made a sweeping declaration regarding his plans for 1916. Mack said recently: "We are losing ball games every day, and probably will finish the poorest team in the league in 1916. I have made considerable progress along the lines of reconstruction. If the fans will look back to the 1908 season they will realize that my progress was slow then until the combination was complete, and then the team came like lightning. My progress must be slow, because the only part that I have now that I am banking on for my new machine are pitchers, and they don't know anything yet, and cannot be expected to show until next season."

On the other hand, Philadelphians

Baseball men themselves, players and managers, were pretty much divided on the outcome of the National league—those who have "believed" in the writing slants of Alexander through a long, weary season—are for him, strong. They don't think he can lose. On the other hand, American leaguers, who have battled against Boston's prize trio—Shore, Foster and Leonard—can't see how the American league entry can lose.

One thing that the American league adherents pointed to with much confidence was the result of the recent Detroit-Boston series wherein the Red Sox really won the pennant. They pointed to the fact that Detroit, with Cobb, Crawford and Veach—one of the strongest batting clubs baseball has seen in years—couldn't do anything to the finely balanced staff of Carrigan. And what chance, they queried, has a comparatively weak hitting aggregation like the Phillies got against them?

On the other hand, Philadelphians

pointed to the fact, undeniable, that the Clan of Carrigan never has faced a pitcher of Alexander's calibre.

Arguments a Draw.

At last accounts the arguments stood a draw. It will take the games to decide.

Early indications pointed to a mammoth crowd attending the first game. Both cities are fairly hectic over the series, particularly Philadelphia, as this is the first National league pennant she ever boasted in thirty-odd years striving. When Boston is hot, it follows necessarily that all New England is.

Whoever pitched today, one thing was assured—as classy an exhibition of tense pitching moments as a world series crowd ever saw. Either Shore, Leonard or Foster are certainly worthy of anybody's steel, even Alexander's.

PENNANT WINNERS SET FOR OPENING GAMES IN SERIES

Early Predictions That Alexander Will Pitch Against Leonard or Shore.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—Baseball's biggest battlefield was cleared for action today, and the combatant Phillies and Red Sox stripped to fighting trim for the conflict that will send another world series hurtling into baseball history.

Seldom in baseball's history have two teams stood on the brink of a world series clash with so much diversity of opinion regarding their relative merit. If it were possible to take an electoral vote of the neutral spectators, it is quite probable the judge would declare a dead heat.

The Phillies, piloted by Irish Pat Moran, didn't figure from a team standpoint.

It was Alexander against the Red Sox, not the Phillies, according to fandom's version of the annual drama.

Never has one player, and one alone, carried the burden of his side's offense and defense on his shoulders to such an extent as does the big Nebraska this breezy October day.

"Can Alexander do it alone?" That question has probably been asked and answered a million times since the vanguard of the world series crowds began drifting into the city. All others faded into insignificance in crowded hotel lobbies and streets. One never heard "What can the Red Sox do?" It was "What can Alexander do?"

Sleep in Lines.

Long before daybreak there was a sleepy stream of bleacher fans lined up either side of the box office, intended for the coveted tickets. Some didn't. The latter class was taking a long chance of selling the bits of pastboard for from three to five, and even ten, times what they paid for them. Some persons called the scalpers and speculators.

That Alexander will pitch the first game goes without saying, although the tactician Moran has not said so yet. But Alec is Philadelphia's only ace—it can be played, then pulled back and played again, and quite probably again.

It seemed probable this forenoon that Ernest Shore would get the ball from Bill Carrigan, although in some quarters it was predicted that Dutch Leonard, Boston's prize southpaw, might be sacrificed.

Baseball men themselves, players and managers, were pretty much divided on the outcome of the National league—those who have "believed" in the writing slants of Alexander through a long, weary season—are for him, strong. They don't think he can lose. On the other hand, American leaguers, who have battled against Boston's prize trio—Shore, Foster and Leonard—can't see how the American league entry can lose.

den will be from the McFarland-Gibbons go? Moran has hiked off to Saratoga Springs to prepare for this fight of October 19, and he will be in the best shape of his life. Coffey has been preparing by doing a few thirderers, knocking out a few that he still had his punch and now he's fully convinced that he is better than ever. There will be none of the moving picture waiting in this bout. Coffey wouldn't know how to begin and Moran, well Moran is an ambitious youth with a championship bee in his bonnet.

There's a concerted movement afoot to make New Haven, Conn., the real fighting center in the east. Twenty-round decision bouts are permitted there.

The town is almost midway between Boston and New York and convenient to many of the larger towns in Connecticut and Rhode Island. Philip J. Smith, chief of police, is the boxing commissioner in New Haven, and he points out that there's room enough in the big ice rink to permit the staging of some of the very biggest bouts. "The rink used for hockey games, seats 3,800 normally," says Chief Smith. "If a bout were staged there it would space of 200x100 feet could be built up with extra seats, increasing the seating capacity to 6,000."

BRYAN AND THE LOAN.

The Wall Street Journal has continuously upheld the proposed loan to the allies as good, sound business policy and has not failed to take a rap at the opponents in the present editorial they pay their respects to William Jennings Bryan in the following manner:

"At the risk of conceding the advertising his soul loves to the flattest punctured bladder in American public life, the following utterance of William J. Bryan is worth quoting. Most appropriately, it appears in the highly born Gleaner of Hearst's New York American."

"The money invested in these bonds will be withdrawn from the money available for investment in other things, and will tend to make money scarce in sections which are not especially interested in the production of war supplies."

"Was there ever an occasion upon which Mr. Bryan spoke upon such a subject that he did not demonstrate utter inability to appreciate the difference between money and credit? Even in this short paragraph he uses them as interchangeable expressions. It will be noticed, however, that he does not talk about credit. Can it be for the intrinsically improbable reason that he does not know what it is? Mere ignorance has never deterred him on other questions."

"So far from the loan making money tight, advancing interest rates in the parts of the country not concerned with war supplies, the success of it will do exactly the reverse. Had the negotiation proved a failure, the export of wheat and cotton would have been retarded, the holding of the growers would have required financing, and those innocent victims for whom Mr. Bryan is so concerned would have felt the consequence in interest rates."

"In the form adopted, the loan is merely a credit, which will be transferred from one hand to another. The proceeds will remain in the country, to be used in active forms of business. Not a dollar will go to Europe, where the movement of our autumn exports will be expedited at a most profitable time."

"Precisely what Mr. Bryan and Herr von Hearst find to say when the loan is over-subscribed will be more interesting than their utterances usually are. Perhaps they will turn their attention to supporting the German war bonds issued here, which have so far proved a dismal failure, although they offer the hyphenated investor better than 8 per cent on his money."

JUST ONE WORD.

There is every possibility that long before the time comes for the selection of delegates to the national convention of the republican party to nominate a presidential candidate in 1916, Robert M. La Follette will announce himself as a candidate for such nomination and demand of the voters of the state their support by sending a delegation pledged to him to the national convention. The Gazette has urged this action on the part of republicans in the past, feeling that it was an honor to the state to have one of its citizens thus honored by mention as a possible candidate. That day is past. La Follette is hopelessly and helplessly out of the race. If he makes such an announcement it will be merely to avoid a conflict at the polls seeking to head the Wisconsin state delegation against Emmett L. Philipp, our governor, for fear of defeat at the spring primaries. If he demands the state delegation he will name men he can control on his ticket as delegates. He will not have to make the issue himself. He sits back in his tent, as did Achilles, and sulks, and like the Grecian hero, when urged to fight, awaits the call to don his armor and go forth to battle. If he loses the delegation he will not be injured in his campaign for re-nomination for the United States senate. His chances will be equal. However, should he make a personal fight to control and head the state delegation and lose control of it, he would have lost prestige. He dares not face the first issue at hand and stake all, win or lose, on the national delegation, so do not be surprised to see him come out as a chosen son. It is to be hoped, however, that the conservative republicans will not feel under any necessity to select a chosen son from among their ranks to oppose him. It has been suggested that if La Follette did not make the race for the delegation that Philipp might pursue the same course. It would be poor policy. The people elected Philipp as governor and they want to be certain that he decides to retain the office and again be a candidate for re-nomination and election. They demand it as their due and there is no mistaking the sincerity of their demand. He can not fool with national politics and expect the support of the men who have stood behind him during his past campaign. It is Philipp for governor, or nothing.

FIRE DRILLS AGAIN.

Now is the time for lighting fires in school buildings and now is the time for precautions. There is nothing so efficient as fire drills in the various schools. As far as can be learned they have been given with regularity, at specified times, since school began this fall. What is needed is an unexpected alarm to give a real, genuine test. It is all well and good to state that the children are drilled in marching in and out of the buildings at recess and dismissal time, but in time of urgent need this drill, however good in its fundamental principles, misses the mark. It is most needed, and as the Cleveland school fire, all too fresh in our memories, loss of life resulted. It is stated that at the high school during the past week a fire drill was held unexpectedly and while all the pupils reached out of doors without breaking any limbs, it was like turning a barrel of potatoes upside down when they made their exit. Like everything in life, it takes time to bring about perfection. You can not model a clay figure perfectly the first time, either, can you paint a picture without training unless it be designed for a cubist display. The same is true of the fire drills. Keep the children up to that stage of efficiency so that should the occasion arise they can get out of the building safely, without confusion, and above all without loss of life.

FRANK HAYES GIVES ADVERTISING TALK

Speaks to Members of Newly Organized Industrial School Class on Ethics of Publicity.

Frank D. Hayes last evening addressed the advertising class of the Janesville evening school on advertising. About twenty interested in advertising have thus far joined the class. Addresses and talks similar to that of Mr. Hayes will be given by men versed along this line and later psychology of advertising will be studied. S. L. Smith of the Lewis Kallitine works will have charge of the class.

Mr. Hayes' address was as follows: "What is advertising and what should its purpose be? Many advertising men say, 'Advertising is selling through publicity.' Advertising is that definition because many advertisements do not result in sales. In the publisher meets his greatest trouble because an advertiser who pays out good money for advertising space and fails to get satisfactory results, is inclined to discredit advertising."

"The real difficulty lies in the advertiser misunderstanding what advertising is. To my mind advertising is merely a commercial communication to a specific number of prospective buyers. For the advertiser buys advertising in any medium and does not pay merely for a given space, but rather for the privilege of talking to a definite number of people on a business proposition."

"In newspaper advertising the circulation may be likened to a large crowd of people who have been gathered in a large auditorium by the management. For the advertiser is talking to this audience, the advertiser must pay according to the time he speaks. In the newspaper the size of the space may be compared to the length of time in the auditorium of the speaker. The size of the type used may be compared to the tone of the speaker's voice; then it follows that the use of too large a type and too much yelling at your audience, while the use of too small a type might be compared to talking in a whisper."

"It is a mistake to happen that one speaker before this audience might speak for an hour without persuading anyone to buy, while another speaker might speak but a few moments and make many sales. Just so an advertiser may use a large space and make few sales while a man using a small space may get good results. One of the chief purposes of this course is to teach advertisers to so use their space that they will obtain the maximum results."

"Advertising must not be thought of as a thing apart from the other factors in business. By the factors in business is meant those elements or conditions that contribute to the success of the business. There are three main divisions, business management, business advertising, and business sales. Under business management I would include quality of goods sold, the attitude of the management toward customers, fairness of prices, appearance of the store and clerks, the courtesy of the clerks, the show window display, the conveniences of policy to customers, and the credit policy of the firm."

"Under the head of field of operation I would include the size of the town, the financial condition and tastes of the population, the rural population and surrounding small town population, the ease with which that population can reach the business center, the location of your particular business in the field, the number of years it has been in the field, and the number of competing firms in the field."

"Under the head of advertising I would include signs, handbills, pamphlets or catalogues, letters, moving picture slides, the social activity of the management and the clerks, and printed advertising in programs and newspapers or magazines."

"The purpose of advertising is to connect the other two factors. In other words, to acquaint the people in your city, the surrounding small towns and farming districts with what you have to offer them in the way of store service or merchandise."

STORM KING'S SAMPLE SHOWN IN JANESVILLE

City This Morning Visited By Trace of Snow, Causing Many Hard Winter Predictions.

Medicine Hat did the weather man one better this morning and greeted Janesville and vicinity with snow. The fall proved to be snow in name only, as it melted as quickly as reaching the ground.

Nevertheless its early presence has caused apprehension, and prophecies of an early and long winter were ger-mained with the phenomenon this morn-ing.

Appropos of the chilly weather and snow this morning and demure misses strange mufflers, one old gentleman was prompted to remark as he gazed upon one fair damsel in silk stockings and low light and satin pumps, "They'd look a whole lot better if they put on shoes and left the dang-ling things off their necks."

Two inches at Wausau.

Wausau, Oct. 8.—Fully two inches of snow fell here last night, but it practically disappeared at noon, while a temperature slightly above freezing point is maintained. Similar condi-

Remove Waste Matter That Causes Sickness

I cheerfully recommend Foley Cathartic Tablets to any one suffering with constipation or biliousness." George Jenner, 416 Labor St., San Antonio, Texas.

When the bowels are clogged with a mass of poisonous waste, biliousness, sick headache, sour stomach, bloating gases, and general discomfort result. A wholesome and thoroughly cleansing cathartic that will move off the congested mass without griping or nausea is Foley Cathartic Tablets. Take them at bed time, and the next morning you will find a grateful relief, without any discomfort, headache or unpleasant after effects.

They keep the liver healthily active, promote digestion, and shut out headache and biliousness. Ask your druggist.

CHAPTER XI.

That summer Juanita's cabin rose on the small patch of ground bought from the Widow Everson, for in these hills the raising of a house is a simple thing which goes forward subject to no delays of striking workmen or balking contractors. The usual type, with its single room, may be reared in a few days by volunteers who turn their labor into a frolic. She had owed much to Jerry Everson and to Good Anse Talbot, for had her building force been solely of Haver or McBriar complexion the school would henceforth have stood branded, in native eyes, a feud institution.

But Good Anse and Jerry, who were tolerated by both factions, and were gifted with a rough-hewn diplomacy, had known upon whom to call, even while they had seemed to select at random.

The cabin had been finished just before the news came of the death of Fletch McNash, and Jerry Everson had gone over with her to survey and admire it.

As he stood under the newly laid roof, sniffing the fresh, woody fragrance of the green timbers, he produced from under his coat what looked like a giant powder-horn. He had scraped and polished it until it shone like varnish, and he hung it by its leather thong above the hearth.

"What is it for, Jerry?" demanded the girl, and with that he took it down again and set it to his lips and blew. A mellow sound, not loud, but far-carrying, like the fox-hunter's tally-ho, floated over the valley.

"Our house hasn't more than a whoop an' a holler away," he said awkwardly, "but when ye're livin' over hyar by yoreself, ef ye ever wants anything in their nighttime, jest blow that horn."

After she had almost burst her cheeks with effort, he added: "Don't never blow this signal unless ye wants ter raise merry hell."

Then he imitated very low, through pursed lips, three long blasts and three short ones.

"What's that signal?" she demanded.

"Ye've heered the McBriar yell," he told her. "That horn calls ter Haver rallyin' signal. When that goes out every Haver that kin tote a gun's got ter git up an' come. Hit means war."

"Thank you, Jerry. I won't call the Haves to battle."

The night after she had fung her challenge down to Bad Anse Haver Juanita sat in the McNash cabin to be with Dawn and the widow. The next day she went with them to the mountainside "buryin'-ground," where Good Anse performed the last rites for the dead.

After it was all over, and it had been decided that the widow was to take the younger children up Meeting-house fork to live with a brother, the missionary and the teacher started back. Jeb was to stay here alone to run the farm, and when Juanita returned to the ridge Dawn went with her.

They were passing a tumbling waterfall, shrunken now to a trickling rill, when Dawn broke the long silence.

"Wunst, when I war a leetle gal," she said, "Unc' Perry war a-hidin' out up ther branch from ther revenuers. I used ter fotch his vittuals up ther ter him."

Juanita turned suddenly with a shocked expression. It was as if her little songbird friend had suddenly and violently reverted; as if the flower had turned to poison weed. And as Juanita looked Dawn's eyes were blazing and Dawn's face was as dark as her black hair—dark with the same expression which brooded on her brother's brow.

"What is it, dear?" Juanita asked, and in tense and fiery voice the younger girl exclaimed:

"I wishes I war a man. I wouldn't wait and set still like Jeb's doin'. By heaven, I'd git that murderer. I'd cut his heart out his body."

"But ne come back ther same man then went down. Somethin' called him. Somethin' calls ter every mountain man that goes away, an' he hark- on ter ther call."

"Anse come back," repeated Dawn triumphantly. "An' Anse is hyar. Ef Jeb sets ther an' don't do nothin', I reckon Anse Haver won't hardly let hit go by without doin' nothin'. Thank heaven, ther's some men left in ther hills like Anse Haver—but ef Jeb don't do nothin' I'll do hit myself."

Again Juanita shuddered, but it was not the time for argument, and so she went on, bitterly accusing Haver in her heart for his wizard hold on these people—a hold which incited them to bloodshed as the fanatical priests of the desert urge on their wild tribesmen.

She did not know that Bad Anse Haver went every few days over to the desolated cabin and often persuaded the boy to ride home with him and spend a part of the time in his larger brick house. She did not know that Bad Anse was coming nearer to lying than he had ever before come in withholding his strong suspicions from the boy because of his unwillingness to incite another tragedy.

So when one day a McBriar henchman by the name of Luke Thirion had left the mountains and gone west, Anse hoped that this man would stay away for a long while, and he refrained from mentioning to Jeb that now, when the bird had flown, he knew definitely of his guilt.

While Dawn, under the guidance of her preceptor, was making the acquaintance of a new and sweeter life, whose influences fed her imagination and fired her quick ambition, her brother was more solemnly being molded by the Haver chief.

The water-mill of old Bob McGreogor was the nearest spot to the dwelling of Bad Anse Haver where grist could be ground to meal, and sometimes when Jeb came over to the brick house he would volunteer to throw upon his shoulders the sack of corn and plod with it up across the ridges. He would sit there in the dusty old mill while the slow wheel groaned and creaked and the cumbersome millstones did their slow stilt of work.

So one day, toward the end of August, Juanita, who had climbed up the path to the poplar to look over her battlefield and renew her vows, saw Jeb sturdily plodding his way in long, resolute strides through the woods toward the mill, a heavy sack upon his shoulders and a rifle swinging at his side.

That day chance had it that no one else had come to mill and Bob McGreogor had persuaded the boy to drink from the "leetle blue bag" until his mind was ripe for mischief. While the mill slowly ground out his meal Jeb McNash sat on a pile of rubbish in the gloomy shack, nursing his knees in interlocked fingers. Old Bob drank and stormed and cursed the inertia of the present generation. The lad's lean fingers tightened and gripped themselves more tensely and his eyes began to smolder and blaze with a wicked light as he listened.

"Ye looks like a right stand-up sort of a boy, Jeb," growled the old freater who had set more than a few couples at each other's throats. "An' I reckon hit's all right, too, fer a feller ter bide his time, but hit 'pears ter me like ther men of these days don't do nothin' but bide ther time."

"I won't bide mine no longer than what I has ter," snapped the boy. "Anse 'lows ter tell me when he ends out who hit war ther got my pap. Ther's all I needs ter know."

Old Bob shook his head knowingly and laughed in his tangled beard.

"I reckon Anse Haver'll take his leisure. He's got other fish to fry. He's a-thinkin' 'bout bigger things than yore grievance, son."

The boy rose, and his voice came very quietly and ominously from suddenly whitened lips. "What does ye mean by ther, Uncle Bob?"

"Mebby I don't mean nothin' much. Ther erin mebbe I could give ye a pretty good idee who kill yore pap. Mebbe I could tell ye 'bout a feller—a feller that hain't fur removed from Old Milt Haver—that went snoopin' cross ther ridge ther same day yore pap died with a rifle-gun 'cross his elbow and his pockets struttin' with catridges."

"Who war he?" came the tense demand with the sudden snap of rifle-fire. "Who war ther feller?"

Old Bob filled and lighted his pipe with fingers that had grown unsteady from the ministrations of the "leetle blue bag." He laughed again in a drunken fashion.

"Ef Bad Anse Haver don't 'low ter tell ye, son," he artfully demurred, "I reckon hit wouldn't hardly be becomin' fer me ter name his name."

The boy picked up his battered hat. "Give me my grist," he said shortly. He stood by, breathing heavily but silently while the sack was being tided, then, putting it down by the door, he wheeled and faced the older man.

"Now ye're agoin' ter tell me what I needs ter know," he said quietly, "or I'm agoin' ter kill ye whar ye stands." Uncle Bob laughed. He had meant all the while to impart that succulent bit of information, which was no information at all, but which made suspicion. He had held off only to infuriate and envenom the boy with the cumulative force of climax.

"Hit warn't nobody but—" After a pause he went on, "but old Milt McBriar's own son, Young Milt."

"That's all," said Jeb soberly. "I'm obliged ter ye."

He went out with the sack on his shoulders and the rifle under his arm, but when he had reached a place in the woods where a blind trail struck back he deposited his sack carefully under a ledge of overhanging rock, for the clouds were mounting and banking now in a threat of rain and it was not his own meal, so he must be careful of its safety.

Then he crossed the ridge until he came to a point where the thicket grew down close and tangled to the road. He had seen Young Milt going west along that road this morning and by nightfall he would be riding back. The gods of chance were playing into his hands.

So he lay down, closely hugging the earth, and cocked his rifle. For hours he crouched there with unspeakable patience, while his muscles cramped and his feet and hands grew cold under the pelt of a rain which was strangely warm and chilling for the season. The sun sank in an angry bank of thunder-heads and the west grew lurid. The drizzling downpour blinded him and drenched down his spine under his clothes, but at last he saw the figure he awaited riding a horse he knew. It was the same roan mare that Bad Anse had restored to Milt McBriar.

When young Milt rode slowly by, fifty yards away, with his mount at a walk and his reins hanging, he was untroubled by any anxiety, because he was in his own territory and was at heart fearless. The older boy from Tribulation felt his temples throb and the rifle came slowly up and the one eye which was not closed looked point-blank across immovable sights and along a steady barrel into the placid face of his intended victim.

He could see the white of Milt's eye and the ragged look of hair under the hat-brim which looked like a smudge of soot across his brow. Then slowly Jeb McNash shook his head. A spasm of battle went through him and shook him like a convulsion to the soles of his feet. He had but to crook his finger to appease his blood-lust—and break his pledge.

"I done give Anse my hand ter bide my time 'twell I war dead certain," he told himself. "I hain't quite dead certain," he told himself. "I hain't quite dead certain yet. I reckon I've got ter wait a spell."

He uncocked the rifle and the other boy rode on, but young Jeb folded his arms on the wet earth and buried his face in them and sobbed, and it was an hour later that he stumbled to his feet and went groggily back, drunk with bitterness and emotion, toward the house of Anse Haver. Yet when he arrived after nightfall his tongue told nothing and his features told less.

Juanita, living in the cabin she had built with the girl who had become her companion and satellite, making frequent hard journeys to some house which the shadow of illness had invaded, found it hard to believe that this life had been hers only a few months. Suspense seemed to stretch weeks to years, and she awoke each new day braced to hear the news of some fresh outbreak, and wondered why she did not. A few neighborhood children were already learning their rudiments, and plans for more buildings were going forward.

Sometimes Jeb came over from the brick house to see his sister, and on the boy's face was always a dark cloud of settled resolve. If Juanita never questioned him on the topic that she knew was nearest his heart it was because she realized that to do so would be the surest way to estrange his friendship and confidence.

In one thing she had gained a point. She had bought as much property as she should need. Back somewhere behind the veil of mysteries Anse Haver had pressed a button or spoken a word, and all the hindrance that had lain across her path straightway evaporated. Men had come to her, with no further solicitation on her part, and now it seemed that many were animated by a desire to turn an honest penny by the sale of land. In every conveyance that was drawn—deeds of ninety-nine-year lease instead of sale—she read a thrifty and careful knowledge of land laws and reservation of mineral and timber rights which she traced to the head of the clan.

As summer spent itself there was opportunity for telling timber, and the little sawmill down in the valley sent up its drone and whine in proclamation that her trees were being turned into squared timbers for her buildings.

Any Corn, With "Gets-It" on It,

Yes, it's the simplest thing in the world to get rid of a corn—when you use "Gets-It," the world's greatest corn-remover. Really, it's almost a pleasure to have corns just to see them come off with

"Gets-It" Puts Your Feet in Clover.

Get rid of those corns quickly, safely, painlessly—just easily—with "Gets-It." For warts and bunions, too. It's the 20th century way.

"Gets-It" is sold by all druggists, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

Dinner Stories

The old black cook of a southern family was horrified to find that one of the young negroes, employed as a helper in the kitchen, had been caught stealing.

"I don't believe in stealin'," said Aunt Emmy. "I don't never take nothin'—cept it's somethin' to eat—or somethin' to wear—or somethin' what I thinks the missus don't want—or somethin' de ole boss is got too blind to miss!"

A member of the business staff of Robert Mantell, the actor, tells of a conversation he overheard "in front," on the occasion of Mr. Mantell's production of "Hamlet" in a western town.

"Oh, Harry," said the young woman, "I think it's an awful shame to drown Ophelia and kill Hamlet. They ought to have been married."

Whereupon Harry heaved a sigh

and looked earnestly at his companion.

"I ain't great on tragedy," said he, "but that's how I should fix it."

"London's a dreary sort of place, and the smoke's somethin' awful," the returned countryman was telling his awed village friends.

"It's so thick, the air is, that I wonder anything grows there. I planted some corn in a box on my window sill, to remind me of home, and what do you think came up?"

One suggested wheat while another thought oats more likely. But most of them remained silent, looking at their venturesome friend with respect.

"All wrong!" said the returned traveler, presently. "A policeman came up and told me to take the box down at once!"

ITCHING NEARLY DROVE A WHOLE FAMILY CRAZY

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 24, 1914.—"My husband had a rash all over his body, and soon the WHOLE FAMILY was in the same condition. It looked scaly and raised up on the arms and body in big bumps. This trouble burned and itched so that it would nearly drive one crazy. It was always worse at night, so we could not sleep. We all had this trouble for about two or three years, and during that time tried many remedies and prescriptions with no results. We tried Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap and it RELIEVED AT ONCE, and before the third jar of ointment had been used, we were all completely cured. It has been four months since we were cured, and there are no traces of the trouble."

Every druggist sells Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap, and physicians have prescribed them for 29 years in the treatment of skin troubles.

Look the Part

By JAMES W. ELLIOTT

Writer of "Man Messages"

No matter what we are doing, we are selling to the world—SOMETHING. It matters not what it is, goods, services or whatnot—it is US—in the eyes and minds of the people we want to do business with.

And the first element in selling is Attention.

We get that by appealing to the EYE.

The second is Desire, and the third—Confidence!

And, Good Friend, remember—and mark you well: These three things are involved in everything, every single thing we do, all along thru life. And to the degree of success we attain in doing them, to that same degree of success do we arrive at the finish.

And that's why Dressing Well plays so important a part—people must SEE us first. Every man, woman or child connected with an institution, business or home—is that institution, business or home—in the eyes of the people who come in contact with that individual.

When they come in contact with people, subconsciously people see them as the whole, not a part, of the institution they represent.

And so many Worthy Men and Worthy Women misrepresent themselves the same way, thoughtlessly!

Whether we admit it or not, we are the most important individual in the world to ourselves. And this is true even though we are unselfish to a fault; we've got to feel that way about it—for surely no one is going to think more of us than we think of ourselves.

Our own estimate is their Key of Judgment.

Stage Managers taught the world a great lesson when they gave the order, "LOOK THE PART!"

And the effect upon ourselves is startling; even greater than upon the other fellow—we feel that great peace and quiet joy that comes with knowing that we not only are right, but feel right, and look—RIGHT.

We must strive for that "distinctiveness" that goes with our personality, that something that advertises us as being the man or woman we really are—

That mirrors us, inside.

Long ago this old world shook itself together and realized that it needed men who LOOKED THE PART; Men Who STAYED Young. And, at the same time, it noted that men who made LOOKING THE PART a business, helped themselves to play the part.

So don't forget that LOOKING THE PART is an absolute essential. Then be the part. But, mark you, LOOKING THE PART is a vital end to playing the part.

Thin People Gained Weight Quickly

By Following This Simple Suggestion

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 15 pounds of healthy "stay there" fat should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good rest worth trying. First, weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scales and the tape measure will tell their own story. And many thin men and women who have, can easily add from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. And best of all, the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but mixing with your food, it aids to turn the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten into rich, ripe fat producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepare it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. Much of this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol works to stop the waste and do it quickly and to make the fat producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive. All leading druggists in this vicinity sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back as found in each large box—Advertisement.

Value of Memorizing Scripture

By REV. HOWARD W. POPE
Superintendent of Mrs. Moody Bible Institute of Chicago

TEXT—This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth; but thou shalt meditate therein day and night. Josh. 1:8

One of the best habits one can acquire is that of committing to memory choice verses of Scripture.

Some people commit entire books of the Bible, but I regard that as an unreasonable tax upon the memory. Of course one could easily learn the first psalm, and the twenty-third, and the one hundred, and the one hundred and twenty-first. Also the commandments and the beatitudes.

Beyond that I should advise the marking and memorizing of choice verses as we meet them in our daily reading. Suppose a farmer were to set out a dozen choice fruit trees each year. In a few years his farm would be well stocked with a great variety of fruit, and each tree would bear fruit as long as he lived. Each tree has its own individuality and value, and in course of time each one would come to seem like an old friend. Some yield sweet apples and others sour. Some are early and others late.

Suppose a person should commit to memory one verse of Scripture each week. That would not be a very hard task, but how great would be the result as the years went on. Each verse is like a fruit tree which bears some kind of choice fruit to enrich his mind and ennoble his character and increase his usefulness. And these yield fruit not simply once a year, or even once a month, like the trees in Celestial City (Rev. 22:2), but every day in the year, and all the years of his life.

Take such a verse as John 14:27: "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid." How many times, think you, would a Christian feel his soul on that verse in a lifetime? The same is true of Matt. 11:28 and Romans 8:28 and I John 3:1 and Jude 24.

If one continued this habit a few years his mind would become a magnificent orchard, yielding fruit in such abundance and variety as to supply not only the owner himself, but all his neighbors and friends. If a man had no other assets than a mind well stored with Scripture, he would be a rich man. But he would have other assets, because it is declared of those who delight in the law of the Lord, that they shall be "like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season. His leaf also shall not wither, and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper." Psalm 1:3.

Consider also the effect of this habit in creating a relish for that which is pure and wholesome in literature, and a distaste for that which is vulgar. No one whose mind is stored with the sublime sentiments of the Bible will care for trashy and sensational readings.

Not only will it affect his mind but his character. He will naturally love righteousness and hate iniquity. He will have high ideals because he is familiar with such men as Enoch and Daniel and Abraham. In time of temptation the Holy Spirit will recall to his mind some suitable verse, as he did for our Savior when tempted by the adversary. When perplexed as to his duty some passage of Scripture will flash upon him and make the path of duty as clear as daylight.

Besides, if he is on the alert, he will find many opportunities to help others. He can correct false impressions, answer excuses and objections, and often lead sinners to begin the Christian life.

In some families the custom prevails of each member repeating a verse of Scripture at family worship. In one family each child has a promise each day, and Sunday mornings they repeat all the promises they have learned during the week. A verse from each member of the family at the breakfast table, with the Lord's prayer in concert makes a very good form of family worship where some have to hurry away to business immediately after breakfast.

As a help to those who wish to know God's Word better the writer has arranged a leaflet containing one hundred choice verses, selected from the whole Bible. They cover a wide range of topics and are particularly rich in verses adapted to the use of personal workers. They are arranged in the order in which they come in the Bible, with chapter and verse given. The whole verse is not given, but only enough to recall it when once it has been learned. Anyone who masters these hundred verses will be well equipped for any emergency which may arise. A verse a day for three months would accomplish the task.

The writer has none to sell, but he will gladly give a copy to any who will send him his address on a stamped envelope.

Showing His Ingratitude.
"What on earth are you doing?" demanded the indignant dining-car conductor of the novice waiter, "serving soup on a straight track? Why don't you wait till we strike a curve? You don't know the first principles of rail roading."—Puck.

ELIJAH TAKEN UP TO HEAVEN.

(The Story.)

There is something touching in the firm adhesion of Elijah to Elisha in his closing scenes. It reminds us of Ruth's "Entreat me not to leave thee." If, as has been suggested, Elisha was putting his successor to a final test, his tenacity must have been very reassuring. Elisha saw that he was "steadfastly minded." It is an instinctive impulse on the part of the dying to bestow a last gift, the value of which shall be enhanced by the circumstances under which it is bestowed. So Elisha said, "Ask what I shall do for thee before I be taken away from thee." Elisha's wise choice reminds us of Solomon's. He gives the prophet another assurance of his fidelity to his successor. He asks for what pertains solely to his success in his hold calling—a double portion of Elijah's spirit. Not twice as much as Elijah's, but twice as good as his. Some have affirmed, which would be twice as good as the legal spirit. Subsequent events do not sustain such a request. It is as if Elisha had said, "If you wish to bestow a lasting gift, which shall serve at once as a memorial of your affection and be helpful to me in my career, recognize the double portion which he has given you; give me, for example, twice as much of the prophetic spirit as comes on any one of the fifty of your hands on yonder hilltop."

Elijah answered: "You have done hard in asking, for the matter is not one of explicit revelation to me. However, we will put it into the hands of the Lord, and let him know how and when to give it, whether visibly or invisibly. If in the former manner, so that you see me when I am taken from you, take as the Lord's own token that your request is granted, and that a double portion of prophetic spirit is yours."

Any attempt at minute description of Elijah's translation leads to an exaggerated historic human language can not do justice to the Lord's minister on this occasion, as on so many others, was a flaming fire—a chariot of fire and horses of fire—a chariot of them both ascending and Elisha went up by a whirlwind into heaven.

"My father! thou chariot of Israel and thou chariot of the Lord!"—an epithet without tombstone! Committed to the immortal custody of the sacred Scriptures, it has survived many a panegyric sculptured in the rock. The first exclamation is expressive of the grief of the prophet, subsiding between the prophet in the air and the prophet on the earth. It is as if Elisha had said: "Ah! I see thee; you are then my father and I the subject of thy prophetic sons. By the Lord's own token mine is now the double portion of the eldest son."

The remainder of the epiphany tells with Oriental picturesqueness what the "whirlwind" to Israel. The chariot was the strongest, corresponding to our modern artillery. It was really built of oak, covered sometimes with metal. As many as three poles and as many spokes of wheels were hitched abreast, from the hubs hooked blades extended. Imagine such deadly engine, driven at full speed into the ranks of an enemy! No wonder in ancient times "come trusted in chariots."

Such a chariot, with irresistible power he had hurled himself into the ranks of idolatry, the merciless blades of his wheels dived the Kishon with the blood of four hundred bestial priests. The track of this awful chariot left no trace of two blasphemous engines and their allies. Yet more, through that immaterial something called the "spirit of the times" the rode without fear or favor. The timorous guards at the doors of their weapons as this chariot of wrath swept into the very throne-room to announce to guilty royalty God's righteous judgments. On (Amiel's sick-chamber—everywhere in Abrahah's—Elijah was the dread, implacable Nemesis of idolatry.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.

"Footfalls on the Boundary of Another World" was the winning title of a book which appeared fifty years ago. It proved a somewhat odd collection of popularly known conditions. The Bible better deserves that title. The many incidents it contains, perhaps there is not one which leads us closer to the boundary of another world than the translation of Elijah. It has been described as the most poignant, significant, joyful event which the world before the time of Christ had seen.

How the dying out of consideration for their loving watchers, entreat them to leave them a while for the sake of rest, and as often do the watchers respond in terms like Elisha's strong assertion, "As the Lord liveth and as my soul liveth I will not leave you and to the very boundary of another world I will live with you." The human heart craves certain evidence of a world beyond this frail existence. It is nature. But these are insufficient on the death of friends or one's own approaching dissolution. Cicero's reason of well of immortality, but his reasoning was powerless to assuage his grief when his loved daughter Tullia died. "O Tullia! my dear daughter! I walked the length of the gallery of triumph in the Vatican, looking only at the side upon which the Roman sepulchral inscriptions are set up. It is an anguish of the production of the blank despair of the human mind without revelation. The vision of Elijah breaks in upon this gloom, superinduced by the greatest mystery and sorrow of human experience. The vivid, irresistible argument for the existence of another world. This ascension accentuates the value of the human body. The modern tendency to depreciate the physical frame is germane to that argument of ancient philosophy which asserts that evil inheres in material substances. The inference is that the spirit's separation from the body is emancipation. The tendency now is to assert the immediate reclothing of the spirit with a body suited to its new sphere. Over against the morbid depreciation of the human body there is a late and healthful tendency to assert the wholeness of man, and to appreciate the body as an integral part of that wholeness. The reciprocal influence of mind upon body and body upon mind is better understood. Physical culture, Delarte, calisthenics, dietetics, sanity in ventilation, sleep, and recreation, the taboos of disease and kindred matters as subjects of conversation, the refusal to morbidly consider symptoms as mere accidents—these things lead to the reduction of disease and the promotion of longevity and happiness. When Moses, Elijah, and Jesus entered heaven with their bodies, the dignity and permanence of the body is emphasized.

BE A LEADER: BE A FOLLOWER.
(By the President.)
Substantial achievements are seldom single-handed. They are usually the result of co-operation. The leader outlines his plan. The associate says, "Do all that is in thy heart, behold I am with thee according to thy heart!" The follower is content in anonymity. His leader's success is his highest satisfaction.

EMMETT CORRIGAN
POWERFUL ACTOR

Famous Stage Star Seen Last Night in Metro Picture at Myers Theatre.

"Greater Love Hath No Man" is the title of the picture shown at Myers Theatre yesterday. The universally known and beloved stage star, Emmett Corrigan, was seen in the title role of Varge, a man unjustly convicted to serve a life sentence in prison for a crime committed by another.

His escape from the prison and subsequent roving in far countries, his final return, the confession of the real criminal and the triumphant love of Varge for the warden's daughter, all gave Corrigan ample scope for his ability as a dramatic actor. This picture will be presented at Myers Theatre again tonight.

Does He Eat With His Left Ear?

AT THE MAJESTIC.

Robert Edeson in "Man's Prerogative"

Tonight.
The story of "Man's Prerogative" is not far-fetched or impossible. It begins with the idyllic love of a husband and wife, well-mated, both brilliant, and both highly respected and sought-after by the best society of the city. But as is so often the case, his earlier life had given him a different standard of morality from that which Society imposed upon the wife, though as long as he did not use his name with that of a prominent member of the "Bohemian" set, little by little the scandal reached him, but his faith in her was not shaken.

But finally his faith gave way; an open breach was brought about by a happening of supreme importance, and a divorce resulted. Events work up to a climax in a death-bed confession, and the hand of Fate leads them together again, to live their life anew with a fuller understanding.

AT THE PRINCESS.

The Smalleys in "Scandal" Today.
Excelling in its drawing power even their masterpieces, "Hypocrites," the Smalleys Broadway University feature, "Scandal," in five parts, will be presented at the Princess theatre today.

The story of "Scandal" was suggested by the editorial page of the Los Angeles Examiner. In this article the editor stated that if one could sit behind one of the club windows that face the avenue of any great city, he would hear more poisonous and dangerous gossip in half an hour than one would hear at a sewing circle during a whole afternoon.

In addition to Phillips Smalley and Lois Weber, the cast consists of many stars including Adele Farrington.

AT MYERS THEATRE.
In the production of "The High Road," which comes to the Myers Theatre on Saturday, Oct. 9, Director Jack Noble of the B. A. Rolfe company has gone further to procure effective scenes and climaxes than any director within recent history.

In the original story of "The High Road," as done by Mrs. Fiske in her stage production, the big scene was the fight between Cochran, manager of the spirituous factory, and Mary Page, the leader of the Working Girls Organization. In the motion picture production of "The High Road" Director Noble has made the factory fire one of the most vivid, realistic and startlingly effective scenes imaginable.

In addition to the fire scene, he plays up his plot with a finesse and delicacy unsurpassed.

AT MYERS THEATRE.
There was a slight error in the types of the announcement for the Greater Vandeville attraction which will be at the Myers Theatre Monday
